

Kathryn Vecello and Julie Rudolph

Chelsea Bellew and Maria Pumarejo

Allison Freeman and Robi Jurney

Bonnie Siegfried and Amy Triggs

Dianna Craven and Carolyn Stone

Gina Kleino and Kelli Kleino

Four Seasons luncheon honors the Junior League of the Palm Beaches

Society Insider
Shannon Donnelly
Palm Beach Daily News
USA TODAY NETWORK

The Four Seasons Palm Beach was the setting for a luncheon honoring the Junior League of the Palm Beaches. The event took place Dec. 16 and included eight past presidents of the women's volunteer organization. The JLPB is marking its 83rd year of service to Palm Beach County's women and children.

Caroline Frazier was chairwoman for the gathering, which began with a social hour and silent auction, a Kendra Scott jewelry pop-up and a welcome from JLPB president Chelsea Bellew.

"We are overjoyed to reconnect with past leaders of the Junior League of the Palm Beaches," Bellew said. "Seeing the group of the newest members alongside current members and past leadership — some of the most philanthropic and influential women in Palm Beach County — it is apparent that we all share the same genuine care and dedication to making an impact through our volunteer efforts and local JLPB programs."

The afternoon continued with lunch and a formal congratulations to the Fall 2023 New Members class, which recently completed its training program and full membership requirements.

Past JLPB presidents Julie Rudolph and Kathryn Vecello served as honorary chairwomen for the luncheon. Kirsten Davis is Events VP.

Proceeds from the afternoon will support the Junior League's education, literacy, and women and children's health programs.

The Junior League of the Palm Beaches is currently accepting applications for new members.

Alexis Intriago and Nataly Lara

Jennifer Nawrocki and Sue Gibson

Kimberly Gimson with Kyrie Gimson

Xiomí Murray, Mari Murray and Mary Love

Molly Ousey, Chrissy Mikus and Christina Lamport

A tabletop at the Four Seasons.
PHOTOS BY CARRIE BRADBURN/CAPEHART